

Synergy Spanish Informal dialog

Getting started

So far, you have learned to speak Spanish formally. However, to call it formal Spanish is a misnomer, you really have learned to speak with respect, or to speak politely.

As a tourist, traveller or business person most of the time formal Spanish is the best way for you to talk with people. In most situations, when you first meet someone, formal Spanish is the best option. Otherwise, you can sound arrogant or condescending.

As you get better at Spanish and you start making a lot of new friends, you'll want to speak intimately, then it will be time to use the informal form. Also, when you are speaking to children you'll mostly use the informal form.

With the Synergy verbs from part 2 of Synergy Spanish, making informal conversation in Spanish is very, very easy.

For example, to ask the informal question;

Do you want?

You simply ask,

¿Quieres?

The only differences between the formal verb and informal verb, in the present tense, is an extra S at the end of the verb.

Quiere – you want? (formal)

Quieres– you want? (informal)

Necesita – you need (formal)

Necesitas – you need (informal)

It's that easy!

Just use the S and you are speaking informally.

There are just a few more easy steps to speaking informally. We'll take it a step at a time because knowing theory is only a piece of the puzzle. The real communication comes when you don't have to think about the theory and you just speak.

Now, it's time for you to speak some Spanish, go ahead and practice with the audio lesson.

The original Synergy Spanish is available from www.getbyinspanish.com